Feleke of Zangvebar

VIEW SOURCE

This fan-fiction article, Feleke of Zangvebar, was written by Witcher190 and Adalwulf of Aedirn. Please do not edit this fiction without the writers' permission.

Feleke of Zangvebar, was a lesser-known witcher of the School of the Wolf, belonging to the same unit where Adalwulf of Aedirn trained, who entered to replace Aleid after his death during the beginnings of the Trial of the Grasses. Like other members of his unit, such as the aforementioned Adalwulf and Abbas, he would eventually graduate and become a full witcher.

Biography

Feleke was the son of a Zangvebarian merchant who was shipwrecked near Kerack on his way to Kovir, attacked by pirates. Everyone on the ship died except him, who was rescued by Luka, who was doing a contract in the area and took him to Kaer Morhen shortly after. After his graduation, he would begin his journey on The Path and disappear, being considered dead by the year 1273.

Birthplace	Somewhere in Zangvebar

Personality

Feleke was characteristically quiet and cold, though not distant. Always focused on standing out and being the best, something he inherited from his father, who before becoming a trader, had been a Paladin of the Zang.

Future

Although not present during the dissolution of their school, nor the slow decline of the witchers until the Second Golden Age of Witchers started in the 14th century, Feleke would influence his guild, in a very small but effective way. Since, it would be his notes about his land rescued from the ruins of the fortress, that inspired Adalwulf to send teams beyond the Northern Kingdoms, Nilfgaard and Zerrikania in search of surviving witchers after the creation of the Witcher´s Reformation Act.

Trivia

- The portrait of Feleke, belongs to one of the avatars of the mobile video game The Witcher : Monster Slayer. Edited a bit to make it look better. The intention was to give to the avatars the game a bit of background in the world of The Witcher.
